Pig Woman gone tips in Marshall Co.

Told Police of Conversation she overheard in the famous murder here.

Proved of no value

Mrs Jane Gibson the "Pig Woman" who is figuring prominently in the famous Hall Mills murder case at New Brunswick, was nervous about furnishing the police with information concerning murder case.

Ten years ago she gave the local authorities what she thought was valuable information in the slaying of Mrs Luella Marshall, who died in Mercer Hospital
following an attack along the Pennsylvania
Rd. just beyond the odd fellows home.

Mrs Gibson, who kept a store and furnished room house on South Broad St, below Market, overheard a conversation about the Marshall case and reported the same to both the Police and county authorities. The police say the information she gave was of no value to them.

While she was the owner of the store here some articles were stolen from her. She appealed to the Police and Sergeant Heber

who was then a patrolman, was sent to Bucks County with her to recover the plunder.

PIG WOMAN GAVE TIP IN MARSHALL CASE.
TOLD POLICE OF CONVERSATION SHE OVERHEARD IN THE FAMOUS MURDER HERE.
PROVED OF NO VALUE.

Mr. Jane Gibson, the "Pig Woman", who is figuring prominently in the famous Hall-Mills murder case at New Brunswick, was never shy about furnishing the police with information concerning murder cases.

Ten years ago she gave the local authorities what she thought was valuable information in the slaying of Miss Luella Marshall, who died in Mercer Hospital following an attack along the Pennington Road just beyond the Odd Fellows' Home.

Mrs. Gibson, who kept a store and furnished room house on South Broad Street, below Market, overheard a conversation about the Marshall case and reported the same to both the police and county authorities. The police say the information she gave was of no value to them.

While she was the owner of the store here some articles were stolen from her. She appealed to the police and Sergeant Hebner, who was then a patrolman, was sent to Bucks County with her to recover the plunder.
